Knox Church

Site Renewal

When and why did Knox Church embark on their site renewal?

- In 2014, Knox Church embarked on a significant initiative to renew its site and facilities
- Decades of deferred maintenance needed to be addressed and could no longer be put off

What are the primary goals of Knox Church for the site renewal?

1. Eliminate Knox Church's extensive maintenance deficit
2. Prepare Knox Church site and facilities for the next 100 years

Knox Church

Site Renewal

What has happened to date with the site renewal and what still needs to be done?

- Knox Church and our members invested $7M to restore and renew the Main Church building (restored the foundations, replaced West roof, built a commercial kitchen, installed new HVAC equipment, renewed the sanctuary, renovated the main meeting room, rebuilt the main entrance & front steps)
- Extensive restoration and renovation still need to be completed on the Main Church building

Why is Knox Church pursuing development on its site?

- Knox Church determined the best way to fund the restoration of its main Church building was to lease portions of its site to Greenwin Corp. for 99 years
- The 99 year leases will provide the funds to restore and maintain the Main Church building, while also providing much needed affordable and market rental housing in our community
- The 99 year leases also will help to ensure that Knox Church remains a viable and effective anchor in Harbord Village for generations to come

History

1820: The Presbyterian Church of York (Knox Church) is established as the first Presbyterian congregation in the Town of York. The following year, the congregation builds a modest church on Richmond Street between Bay and Yonge Streets.

1848: After the original church is destroyed by fire, the congregation builds a new and larger building on the same site, this time facing Queen Street.

1907-1909: Following the sale of the Queen Street site, the congregation commissions architect James Wilson Gray, a member of the congregation, to design a new Neo-Gothic-style church on Spadina Avenue, which is constructed between 1907 and 1909.

1960s: The church undergoes a period of expansion, adding a new wing to the south of the main building with facilities for youth programming and a chapel to seed new congregations.

2014: The congregation initiates a comprehensive site renewal program to address a $14 million maintenance deficit, with over $7 million invested in the restoration of the main church by 2023.

Conservation Strategy

Unlock development potential to fund Knox's restoration and maintain its congregation on site for the next 100 years.

Knox Presbyterian Church retained and restored as the landmark anchor on this site.

Retain the church's prominent setback, green lawn and landscape features.

New open space establishes views to Knox Presbyterian Church so that it may become a visible landmark at the corner of Harbord and Spadina.
